Blondin's Birthday
New York, Feb. 28.—A dispatch from London says: Blondin, the world-famed rope walker, is celebrating his seventieth birthday to-day, and in recognition of the fact a reception was tendered to him at the Crystal Palace, his venerable wife and their five children also sharing in the honors of the day. During the reception Blondin walked a tight rope, carrying one of his children, who tips the beam at 150 pounds, on his back. In an interview he sent his compliments and grateful remembrances to the people of the United States, saying that he had never ceased to remember the welcome they gave him upon the occasion of his first visit to this country in 1859. His country house at Little Ealing is named "Niagara House," and here he often entertains visiting Americans. When asked whether he would ever again visit the United States, he replied in the negative, saying that his advanced age made it unsafe for him to risk an ocean voyage. At the same time he said that he still expected to be walking the rope when his eightieth birthday is reached. Of his thousands of souvenirs the one which he regards as priceless is the photograph with accompanying autograph given to him by the Prince of Wales when the latter witnessed his wonderful feat of walking the rope across Niagara Falls on stilts and carrying a man on his back.

Against Free Trade
Washington, Feb. 28.—Vice President Schrack, of the International Union of Cigarmakers, John J. Lynch, of the Chicago Cigarmakers' Union, and President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, are considerably encouraged by the result of their canvass among the members of the senate against the clause of the Wilson bill raising the tax on manufactured tobacco. Their argument that any increase in the internal revenue on cigars will come out of the wages of the journeyman cigar to the impossibility of raising prices in the present condition of trade is being seriously considered by a number of senators who are known to be favorable to the bill as a whole. Their opposition to a reduction of the duty on imported manufactured tobacco is also carrying weight, and the delegation is arguing that the internal revenue will be left as it is for the present.

"How did I come to make the announcement after so many years? It was while the decision of my suit with my husband was pending before the supreme court. A gentleman said to me, 'You will lose your case, the governor is a Mason.' 'She is,' I retorted, and knowing him to be a Mason, I gave him the grape. He looked astonished and remarked that I certainly knew something about Masonry. I then told him that I was going to organize a woman's branch of the order and the story got out."

Grand Army Component
Philadelphia, March 1.—The annual encampment of the Grand Army opened to-day with a large attendance of delegates representing the various posts throughout the states.
